In last week's issue of the Short Creek Republican Col. Weldy takes occasion to compliment in the highest terms the business qualifications of Baxter's business men. He says by their liberal patronage of the newspapers and by judicious advertising on every occasion they are attracting a larger amount of patronage than really belongs to them and while the trade of the city is not only increasing but doubling in volume it won't do to speak of Baxter Springs any more as "that sleepy old town!

Loudermilk and family this week .-J. H. Morgan spent Sunday at home. -Some persons have been busily engaged in getting rid of the town dogs. The object of such work cannot be imagined, but we would suggest that the wisest plan would be to refrain from similar actions in the future, as efforts are being made to discover the source, and if the proper persons be discovered the result will not be pleasant. Suspicions have been

> Baxter Springs is Not Dead. Short Creek Republican.

"A beautiful town but as dead as a door nail," is an expression we have heard time and again concerning our neighbor Baxter Springs. The fact of the matter is Baxter is "a beautiful town" but not dead by a jug full. Its merchants are enjoying a better business than they have in the past ten years and we venture the assertion that the merchants of Baxter are making more money today than are the merchants of Galena notwithstanding er business. The business men of Baxter sell nothing "at cost." Every dollar's worth of goods sold by them yields a fair living profit, hence their prosperity. As to the character of the business men and their manner of doing business we point to one feature which tells the whole story: In looking over the Baxter News of last week we find on the local page 265 lines of pay local. In the Galena Republican we find 128 lines; In the Galena Times, 84 lines. Thus the sleepy (?) merchants of the little dead town of Baxter give their paper more than double the business that the wide awake (?) merchants of the live town of Gaiena give both of their papers. Let us call a halt on this "dead Baxter" business while this state of affairs

How unbecoming it is to see a great big, two-fisted, broad shouldered, strong-in-muscle, twenty-one-year-old young man enter a grocery store and call for twenty-five cents worth of Francisco, Portland and the west and north chewing tobacco and then request the groceryman to charge it to "pap." Get out and earn your own money, young man. Learn what it is to earn a living; and instead of depending on your "pap" for all you eat and wear, rustle these things for yourself.
